Translated for Parshas Ha'azinu 5779 republished 5780

[[EXTRACTION GAP – p.2]]

Parsha that says: כ נ ש ר " י עיר
קנו גו' י ש אהו על א ב רת

There is a Possuk in this week's Maamor was first said.

CONCEPT

Rashi explains: As an eagle awakens its nest: He guided the B'nei Yisroel with mercy and compassion like an eagle, which is merciful towards its own fledglings and does not enter its nest suddenly. Rather, it beats and flaps its wings above its young between one tree and another, between one branch and another, in order that its young should awaken and have the strength to receive it.

CONCEPT

Like an eagle: As Rashi writes: which is merciful towards its own fledglings and does not enter its nest suddenly. ⌘ That carries its fledglings upon its wings: Rashi says on the words of the Possuk 'spreading its wings, taking them': When the eagle comes to move its fledglings from place to place, it does not pick them up with its feet, as do other birds. Other birds are afraid of the eagle, which soars very high and flies

Ha'azinu in the year 5641-1881 that Rashi explains this Possuk to mean that HaShem acts with the B'nei Yisroel with mercy and compassion like an eagle ...that carries its fledglings upon its wings ...⌘ and explains ⌘ this in the analogue ⌘ that even though HaShem does not have the 'Yonosi' of the year 5640 – 1880. above them. For this reason, it the other bird carries them with its feet because of the eagle above them. The eagle, however, is afraid only of an arrow. Therefore, it carries its young on its wings, saying, "It is better that an arrow pierces me, rather than pierce my young." So too, HaKodosh Boruch Hu says: "I carried you on eagles' wings” (Shmos. 19:4). [I.e.,] when the Egyptians pursued the B’nei Yisroel and overtook them at the Red Sea, they cast arrows and catapulted rocks at Yisroel. Immediately, “The angel of HaShem moved... behind them... and the pillar of cloud came between the camp of Egypt and the camp of the B’nei Yisroel” (Shmos. 14:19-20) for the B’nei Yisroel’s protection. — [Mechilta 19:4]. בExplains: And the Rebbe Maharash explains in the Maamor. גIn the analogue: Regarding HaKodosh Boruch Hu.

form of a physical body דNevertheless we do find the concept וOf two hundred and forty-eight limbs. As is known וThat the two hundred and forty-eight commandments (which are the Mitzvos Aseh - the obligatory Mitzvos) are referred to as the two hundred and forty-eight limbs of the King Hakodosh Boruch Hu. It is about this that the Torah is referring when it says “

י ש אהו על א ב רתו

carry them on וits pinions”

above the two hundred and forty-eight limbs which are the Mitzvos, and this refers to ‘Teshuvah’ וas a result of דPhysical body: which means HaShem does not have wings. וWe do find the concept: In spirituality וAs is known: In a maxim from the Zohar. וCarry them on: the wings, with the word ‘on’ the Possuk implies on top of the wings or metaphorically on top of the Mitzvos. וTeshuvah: The Torah writes ‘Thou shall perform Mitzvos’ and if one does then good but if one does not then no good. Then Teshuvah comes along and says that even if you did not listen to the Torah and even you especially did not listen to the Torah then you can still make it good, because Teshuvah is spiritually greater than Mitzvos.

which a person is catapulted וabove the two hundred and forty-eight limbs of the King. This then is the merciful eagle, which symbolises the arousal of great mercy above, categorised by our patriarch Yaakov אwho also includes אAvrohom and Yitzchok as the Possuk states:

ז כ ר ל ע ב ד יך ל א ב ר ה מ ל י צ ח ק כ ג

וCatapulted: When a person repents he becomes much closer to HaShem than when doing Mitzvos. The Alter Rebbe talks in Tanya about one’s connection with HaShem and says it is akin to a rope of six hundred and thirteen strands and by transgressing one of the six hundred and thirteen commandments one severs that rope thus severing his connection with HaShem. However, when one does Teshuvah it is akin to tying a knot in that severed rope which makes that part of the rope stronger than in was ever before. Someone once said that by tying a knot in the rope the two ends also become closer together. This then: is the inner deeper reason why the Possuk compares the unique connection of the B’nei Yisroel to HaShem through Teshuvah to the mercy of an eagle to its young fledglings. א Yaakov: Symbolises the attribute of Rachamim – ‘Mercy’ which is Tiferes – ‘beauty’. Since Avrohom represents Chessed, Yitzchok symbolises Gevurah. Yaakov is a perfect balance between the two called Rachamim and Tiferes, the Middah of mercy and beauty. Just as with colours, music or with taste, when they are singular and alone they are not as beautiful as multi-colour or as a tune of different notes or a combination of tastes. ב Includes: Yaakov is considered the choicest of the patriarchs and his spiritual attainment is a collective amalgamation incorporating both the spiritual attainment of Yitzchok as well as the spiritual attainment of Avrohom before him. ג Possuk states: (Devorim, Eikev 9:27)

זכר לעבדיך לאברהם ליצחק וליעקב

“Remember your servants, Avrohom, Yitzchok and Yaakov.” ד This is as the Rebbe Maharash explains in the above mentioned Maamor that: Even a complete Tzaddik ה needs great mercy from above ו since the body of the Tzaddik also conceals. ז As is known ח there is also this concept of mercy applying to the upper worlds ט for they are also called

אלת פן אל קשיה עם זהו אל רשעו ואל חטאתו

Remember your servants, Avrohom, Yitzchok and Yaakov; do not turn to the stubbornness of this people, to their wickedness, or to their sin.

ד Remember Avrohom, Yitzchok and Yaakov: We see here in the Possuk that all three patriarchs are mentioned together as one. ה Complete Tzaddik: The Alter Rebbe discusses the different levels of Tzaddik in Tanya, a complete Tzaddik is the top of the list. ו Great mercy from above: For his NeShomoh that has had to come down and be en clothed in the body which as the Alter Rebbe writes in Tanya (chapter 31) the body remains abominable and loathsome, as the Zohar says, it is called “a serpent’s skin, ז Also conceals: the revelation and Divine extension, because the body of a Tzaddik is also a physical body and the ‘mercy’ on his Neshomoh for being wrapped up in a physical body is the impetus for him to get closer to HaShem in spite of the body’s concealment. ח As is known: In Chassidus. ט Mercy for the upper worlds: Just as there is mercy for the Neshomoh of a complete Tzaddik, because it is enwrapped in a body of concealment. So too the Divine light in the upper worlds is concealed by the upper worlds somewhat.

worlds where the Hebrew word for world really means concealment. As the Possuk states:

Your kingdom is a kingdom of all worlds". לב We can add in parenthesis נ consistent with the Rebbe RaShaB's ל writings that explain this Possuk מ
לכו תך

Concealment: And in comparison, to HaKodosh Boruch Hu Himself the upper worlds are a concealment and cover up on the Divine light. א As the Possuk states: (Tehilim 145:13)

מ לכו תך מ לכות כל ע ל מים ו מ מ ש ל תך ב כל דור ו דר which is usually translated as "Your kingdom is a kingdom of all times, and Your ruling is in every generation" but can also mean "Your kingdom is a kingdom of all worlds". לב Of all the worlds: And so the supernal mercy is upon all the upper worlds. (As the Alter Rebbe explains in Likkutei Torah that the attribute of Yaakov's mercy is to arouse great mercy even upon the upper worlds because of the knowledge of HaShem because He is the elixir of our vitality and there is nothing besides HaShem. This mercy is equal to all the worlds from the highest of the upper worlds to the lowest of the lower worlds since they are all as a desolate desert and as nought in comparison and HaShem vitalises all of them equally and up and down are equal to Him. א Paraphrase: As a stand-alone issue which is not connected to the main subject matter of the Maamor. ל Rebbe Rashab: Rabbi Sholom DovBer Schneersohn also known as "the Rebbe Nishmosei Eiden (1860– 1920) fifth Lubavitch Rebbe 18931920. second son of the fourth Chabad Rebbe the Rebbe Maharash. Born in Lubavitch, Russia, interred in Rostov, Russia. Founded the flagship Chabad Yeshivah Tomchei Temimim. Known informally as "Rambam of Chabad Chassidus" (from his encyclopaedic work on developing Chabad Chassidic philosophy into an organized system), the Rebbe Rashab was a prolific writer on Chabad theology. His written works provide the first systematic organization of Chabad thought and provide the basis of these studies in Chabad Yeshivahs today. Much of his work has been published in Hebrew, and some of it has been translated into English, and is available online. Sefer HaMaamorim - Igros Kodesh Toras Sholom. Kuntres Uma'ayan. Kuntres HaTefillah. Kuntres HoAvodah. Maamar Heichaltzu. Kuntres Eitz HaChayim. Chanoch Lana'ar. The Rebbe Rashab delivered a series of Chassidic discourses that came under the heading ‘Hemshech Ayin Beis 5672’ starting in the year 5672 (1911-12). This series of Chassidic essays are considered a fundamental work of Chabad mysticism for its original treatment of many Chassidic concepts. The Ayin Beis series is the longest series of Maamorim from any Chabad Rebbe. This series was written and delivered over the course of several years. In its final form, the series consists of 144 discourses, a number of which were never delivered publicly. The work is also referred to as Hemshech Tehrav from the letters of the number of the year in which it was started. The importance of toiling in one’s study is explained at length over there. His teachings also represent the emergence of an emphasis on outreach that later Chabad Rebbes developed into a major theme. ה'Fifty thousand jubilees: As is explained in the Pirushim on the Torah surrounding Parshas Behar where the Torah talks on the topic of Shmitahs and Yovels. In Chassidus it discusses the following: just as after the six working days comes a Shabbos on which all the worlds have an elevation and the human has an elevation and therefore, we desist from work on the Shabbos. So too “Six years sow your field etc.” “And the seventh year is Shabbos Shabboson” because on the seventh year all the worlds have a general elevation. And so too this world exists in this way for six thousand years and the seventh thousand years is a “Shabbos and serenity to He who lives forever” and is generally an elevation for the world. And the first six thousand years together with the seventh thousand years is considered one Shmitah cycle. So just as after that all of the fifty thousand jubilees are all only from the state of Malchus alone.¹⁷ Because fifty thousand jubilees include every conceivable elevation of every world to the highest level of all the worlds. And as it is known ¹⁷regarding the Shabbos we start a new week, and after the Shmitah year we start a new cycle, so too after the seventh thousand years we start to count the second Shmitah cycle of six thousand years and in the next seventh thousand years of the second Shmitah cycle there will be another elevation, and then so to in the third Shmitah and so forth. After seven such cycles there will be yet another general ascent just like the Yovol year which is the fiftieth that comes after seven Shmitahs, and then the second Yovol is counted and so on until fifty thousand Yovels which is a ver specific perfection. ¹⁷Malchus alone: and in the words of the Maamor from the Rebbe RaShaB: this is the implication of the words of the Possuk: מ לכו תך that all the worlds stem from their root which brings them into being and this is specifically the state of Malchus.

And the meaning of the words 'All the worlds' is that the word 'Kol' which means all, has the numeric value of fifty. This means that all the fifty thousand Yovels are all from the state of Malchus ... this means that all the upper worlds and all the lower worlds and the Koach and vitality which pervades them and vitalises them everything all comes from Malchus alone. Which means not from the status of the king Himself but from the kingship alone because the concept of Kingship is a feeling of superiority which is a separating force. ^לAs is known: in Kabbalah and in Chassidus.

division of time into day and years as is reflected and expressed within the worlds in general that 'years' down here below are considered as 'days' in the world above it. ^לFrom this principle the value and greatness of 'years' in the highest of worlds is understood, and how much more so the virtues of the 'Shmitah' year, which is akin to the virtue of the day of Shabbos in comparison to the six days of the week. And most definitely the virtue of the jubilee year and then even more so the fifty thousand jubilee years. ^ל ^טThe world above it: In the upper worlds each unit of time is more special than it is in the world below it so that a day in the upper world has the value of a whole year in the lower world. ^טFifty thousand jubilee years: Are most certainly considered as many many many hundreds of thousands of days and years in the lower worlds.

It is about this that the Possuk states:

מ לכו תך מ לכות כל ע' ל מים

that even the ultimate exaltedness of fifty () כל thousand jubilees is only from the state of Malchus alone. This is also why all the worlds ^מare referred to as ^מעו למות (as the Possuk states)

^מwith the word ^לעל from the word ^לעל meaning concealment. From this it understood by using a ^שכל and a

קל מג וח' מר

regarding the world below ^מwhich is most

State of Malchus alone: And are not from the King himself but from a minute ray of light that emanates from Him. ^מAll the worlds: Even the highest of worlds and the most spiritual. ^מKol Shekein: Let Alone. ^מKal VoChomer: a-fortiori. The first of the thirteen rules which Rabbi Yishmoel sets out (As recited in the Shacharis prayer) to expound the Torah. The most basic hermeneutical methodology is the Kal VeChomer, known in Latin as an argument a fortiori, meaning “from the stronger case.” The nature of an argument a fortiori is “Reuven is known to be stronger than Shimon. If Shimon can lift 100 lbs., a fortiori Reuven can lift 100 lbs.” There is a limit to the argument a fortiori, however: you can’t get more out of it than you put into it. So, I may know that Reuven is stronger than Shimon, but I don’t know if that means Reuven can lift 200 lbs., 150 lbs., 101 lbs. or 100 lbs. and 1 oz. All I know for sure is that Reuven can certainly lift whatever Shimon can lift. מWorld below: This world which spiritually is the lowest of all the spiritual worlds.

definitely a concealment הwhich is why even the body of a Tzaddik is a concealment מas we find with Moshe Rabbeinu מthat he temporarily left his physical body מin the spiritual world of ‘Yetzirah’ (טonly Eliyohu Hanovi was able to purify his body to the extent that he was able to ascend into the heavens with his body.)נIt is הA concealment: covering up and hiding the Divine essence. מConceals and covers up: This is why even the Tzaddik also need to draw great mercy from above. מMoshe Rabeinu: When we ascended to the heavens to receive the Torah. מLeft his physical body: Albeit temporarily. Because even the body of Moshe Rabbeinu was an obstacle to receive the Torah above in the upper realm. טWorld of Yetzirah: World of formation. The realm of spiritual existence in which the limited nature of the created beings takes on form and definition; the abode of the lower classes of angelic beings and of the souls of ordinary Jews. The third lowest of four groups of worlds. Eliyohu Hanovi: The Ramchal writes (Daas Tevunos Siman 70) The point of the soul entering the body is not to live this life of vanity, but rather the primary point of its coming into it is to literally purify it, to bring it up from its low level of physicality and darkness to the uppermost level, to be like the angels. And we find this by Moshe Rabbeinu, who merited and purified his physicality, to the point that he returned to the actual level of an angel, and all of Yisroel saw the shine of his face. And Eliyahu went up to the Heavens in his actual body, since he purified his physicality greatly. נWith his body: But with other Tzaddikim even with Moshe Rabbeinu we don’t find that they purified their bodies to this extent.

because of this concealment that even a complete Tzaddik needs to arouse great mercy from above as outlined by the parable of the ‘eagle’. Beis The Rebbe Maharash continues in his Maamor that in order for a person to arouse the great mercies from above through ‘Teshuvah’ there needs to be some ‘crying’ as the Possuk states נregarding the redemption in the future:

ב ב כ י באו

With Weeping they will come”.

This also refers to the complete Tzaddikim, נand most certainly when a person knows where he is standing in נPossuk states: (Yirmiyohu 31:8)

ב ב כ י בא ו ב ת חנו נים או בי לם או לי כם אל נ ח לי מ ים ב ד רך י שר לא י כ
שלו בה כי ה יי תי “ ל י ש ר אל ל א ב ו א פ ר ים ב כ רי הוא

With weeping will they come, and with supplications will I lead them, along brooks of water will I make them go, on a straight road upon which they will not stumble, for I have become a Father to Yisroel, and Ephraim is My firstborn.” Complete Tzaddikim: That even their arousals will also be expressed in crying.

his heart, that he needs, really, to cry from a feeling of regret for the mistakes of the past.
This is analogous to one who whilst bathing in the river starts to drown and regrets going there to bathe. [It seems that this must be the origin of the story of the gentile from Vitebsk that started to drown and regretted bathing there etc]. Similarly, in the analogue this is the matter of the Neshomoh descending into the body in this lowly world In his heart:
When a person knows himself how far he is from being considered a true Tzaddik. Needs to really cry: A crying from bitterness. Going there to Bathe: As in the words of particular Maamor from the Rebbe Maharash that says: There are aspects of Teshuvah that regret can be so effective that it motivates all of ones faculties as our Sages of blessed memory have said that true Teshuvah is analogous to someone going to the river to bathe and starts to drown to the extent that he is completely regretful of ever going in there to bathe and this is how one needs to regret his past so that it touches his very soul. Similarly: Similar to bathing and drowning in the water. In the analogue: In the regret of Teshuvah.

into the ‘Mayim Rabim’ which alludes to the difficulties of earning a living. It is known that this aspect of earning a living and worrying about not having enough bread is the beginning of a person’s whole spiritual descent etc...

It is about this that there needs to be a ‘Teshuvah’ and regret to the extent of crying.
This also explains the meaning of the words in Tehilim “ ע ב רי סב
ב ע מק ה ב כ א מ ע ין י
שיתוה

Mayim Rabim: Lit: loads of water, the great flood of Noach is considered ‘Mayim Rbim’ and ther too it is compared to the efforts and difficulties of earning a living and world matters that are not to do with serving HaShem. Whole spiritual descent: Descent of a person’s spiritual standing. In the morning when one is in Shul praying or studying he has full control over his faculty but as he spends his day out in the world he drifts and descends away from his earlier spiritual attainment. Similarly, through Tishrei one achieves a high spiritual achievement but as he goes back in to work and world matters he slowly drifts and descends away from his spiritual focus. אס About this: This descent as a result of his 'Mayim Rabbim' of the difficultiess of earning a living. בס Tehilim: (84:7) of weeping make it into a fountain” and the Sages of blessed memory of the Talmud גס say that ר' ע ב ר י refers to those who transgress the will of HaShem. מלך ע means they deepen Gehinom דס for them. כ א ב ה means that they גס Talmud: Eiruv (19:1) Rabbi Yehoshua ben Levi said: What is the meaning of that which is written: “Those who pass through the valley of weeping turn it into a water spring; moreover, the early rain covers it with blessings” (Psalms 84:7)? “Those who pass through” ‘Overei’, these are people who transgress ‘Overin’ the will of HaKodosh Boruch Hu. “Valley ‘Emek’ indicates that their punishment is that Gehinom is deepened ‘Ma’amikin’ for them. “Of weeping ‘Bocha” and “turn it into a water spring ‘Ma’ayan Yeshisuhu’,” indicates that they weep ‘Bochin’ and make tears flow like a spring ‘Ma’ayan’ of the foundations ‘Shitin’, meaning like a spring that descends to the foundations of the earth. “Moreover, the early rain covers it with blessings,” indicates that they accept the justice of HaShem’s judgment, and say before Him: Master of the Universe, You have judged properly, You have acquitted properly, You have condemned properly, and it is befitting that You have prepared Gehinom for the wicked and the Garden of Eden for the righteous. דס Gehinnom: This is usually translated as “Hell,” but a better translation would be “the Supernal Washing Machine.” Because that’s exactly how it works. The way our soul is cleansed in Gehinnom is similar to the way our clothes are cleansed in a washing machine, and only after going through a wash cycle can the clothes be worn again. We don’t put our socks in the washing machine to punish them. We put them through what seems like a rough and painful procedure only to make them clean and wearable again. So too with the soul. Every act we do in our lifetime leaves an imprint on our soul. The good we do, brightens and elevates our soul, and every wrongdoing leaves a stain that needs to be cleansed. If, at the end of our life, we leave this world without fixing the wrongs we have done, our soul is unable to reach its place of rest on high. We must go through a cycle of deep cleansing. to prepare it for cry and drop tears like a spring that descends to the foundations of the earth..... In other words, the rectification הס and refinement יס come as a result of the tears of crying in Gehinom. However, there is a way יס of avoiding the necessity to come down to the refinement and purification of Gehinom. That way is that, if, whilst he is still in this world, he does Teshuvah with crying. נס Accordingly, we can explain another elucidation in the Possuk that instead of referring to entry into Heaven. Of course, this whole process can be avoided. If we truly regret the wrong we have done and make amends with the people we have hurt, we can leave this world with a clean slate.” That’s why our Sages said, “Repent one day before you die.” And what should you do if you don’t know which day that will be? Repent today. ה Rectification: Rectification of the blemishes that came about from transgressions. י Refinement: Refining the good from the bad. י There is a Way: In serving HaShem in which one can rectify the damage without the need for the refinement process of Gehinom. ח Teshuvah with Crying: And becomes aroused to repentance through sorry feelings of regret as explained earlier.

Gehinom, [the Possuk] is referring to the difficulties of earning a living[ו and] that because of this one needs to succumb to rectification through the crying of Teshuvah. Gimel The Rebbe Maharash continues in the Maamor that as a result of doing Teshuva a person is able to be “ א above the two hundred and forty-eight commandments which are considered to be the two hundred and forty-eight limbs of the King. ב This is so because he transgressed and [thus] did not draw down the spiritual garments ג through the two ו Difficulties of earning a living: That cause one to lower his spiritual standing and Divine connection. Doing Teshuvah: that causes a person ascend to higher spiritual level and connects with HaShem with a closer connection. א On its pinions: On top of its limbs. ב Limbs of the King: As explained at the beginning of the Maamor. ג Spiritual garments: That are drawn down on to the Neshomoh.

hundred and forty-eight obligatory Mitzvos ד therefore he needs to be carried above them. ה This ו explains the next words in the Possuk:

it spreads its wings, taking them”.

Wings are spiritual vessels for HaShem’s supernal desire. ז The root of the vessels ח is far greater than the spiritual garments. ט As is known, the root of the spiritual vessels is from the ‘Reshimu’ which is the residue of the ‘EinSof’ as it was before the original Tzimtzum contraction. ד Obligatory Mitzvos: As explained in Chassidus that every Mitzvah performed adds another spiritual clothing by means of which the Neshomoh can later enjoy in Gan Eden. הCarried above them: So that he can connect with G-dliness through a means that is not via the garments. וThis: Is the inner deeper meaning of the continuation of the Possuk. זSupernal desire: In other words, vessels by means of which one can receive and contain the supernal desire so that it shall hold on to the Divinity and the Divinity shall dwell in them. חRoot of the vessels: In which and through which (as a result of Teshuvah) the supernal desire illuminates and is revealed. טSpiritual garments: Which are generated by the performance of Mitzvos. Tzimtzum Contraction: As is explained in Kabbalah and in Chassidus that in the beginning before the finite worlds were Accordingly, the ascent which occurs as a result of the Neshomoh's descent below will be understood. Before the Neshomohs descend below, their root is from the internal aspect of the spiritual vessels אand as a result of their descent becoming enclothed in a physical body they ascend within the state of 'lights'. בcreated, Hashem's infinite light of the 'Ein Sof' illuminated without interruption. But when HaKodosh Boruch Hu decided that He wanted to create this finite world and other finite worlds and finite beings, Hakodosh Boruch Hu contracted his holy infinite light creating a void (Or at least a presumed void) so that it should no longer shine inside the void. After contracting His holy light Hakodosh Boruch Hu returned and shone a tiny beam of light (Like a pin prick through the crust of the sphere). This beam of light is compared in Kabbalah and Chassidus to a 'Kav' which means a line or a 'Chut' which means a thin thread highlighting that the beam of light was as thin as a 'hairs breadth'. but even after the contraction, after HaShem removed His holy light from the void a mark remained like a residue from the Infinite light of the Ein-Sof and it is from this residual light that the vessels are rooted. (As is known in Kabbalah and in Chassidus that the root of the vessels is spiritually greater than the root of the light). אSpiritual vessels: As explained earlier that the spiritual vessels stem from the light of of the previous presence of the world of Tohu. בState of lights: And the lights are spiritually greater than the vessels.

In other words, their ascent גfrom the state of '

nevertheless, the פג Their ascent: The ascent of the Neshomohs as a result of their descent. פד Garmohi: Lit. Causations translates as the vessels which is where they come from before their descent. פה Reshimu: Which is merely a residual mark and a minor illumination from the light of the Infinite Ein-Sof. פו Chayohi: Which are the lights. פז As is known: And as is brought down in the previously mentioned Maamor Yonosai. פח Ihu Vechayuhi Chad: Unlike the forces of the other side where there is no integration between the Sfirah and the vitality that vitalises it because the vitality being pure will not merge with the evil forces. On the side of holiness there is a perfect unity and oneness between HaShem and his vitality. פט Ihu Vegarmohi Chad: Unlike humans whose kindness or whose intellect or other faculty is an additional element to the person in other words, there is a person and there is his ability to think which are two interdependent things, with Hashem as the Rambam writes He is the knower of the wisdom and He is also the ability to know the wisdom and He is also the wisdom itself, He is all one because otherwise we would be inferring that ‘knowledge’ was another existence besides Hashem. But even though HaShem’s lights and HaShem’s vessels are nullified to HaShem Himself and are united so that HaShem and His vitality and HaShem and His vessels are one united entity (and the lights and the vessels are not an entity unto themselves.....

איהו וג רמו הי

is nothing like the unity of איהו וג חיו הי

However, all of this is only consistent with the translation that the ‘Reshimu’ is merely a residual mark and minor ray, פא because then it is possible to differentiate between ג רמו and הי By contrast however, according to the Pirush that the ‘Reshimu’ is a significant residual mark as it is an impression from when the infinite ‘Ein-Sof’ filled the void prior to the original Tzimtzum contraction פב then it is not possible to differentiate between ג רמו and פג Ihu Vechayuhi: The unity of the lights whose ethos is to reveal Gdliness is ultimately greater than the unity of the vessels whose ethos is to conceal G-dliness.

אצMinor ray: From the Infinite light of the Ein-Sof Himself. בצGarmohi and Chyohi: And to establish that the self-nullification and unity of the lights is deeper than the self-nullification and unity of the vessels. גצTzimtzum Contraction: And not just a mere contracted illumination but the residue of the Ein-Sof himself. דצGarmohi and Chayohi: Because the vessels are also completely self-nullified and absolutely unified.

Therefore accordingly, הצwe need to say that the ascent וצthat results from the Neshomoh's descent below is זצgreater than the state of חיו הי, which means that the ascent is greater than the name of 'Havaye' (which itself is a state of lights) which is higher than the letters of HaShem's name 'Havaye' whose ethos it is to contract, expand, draw down and spread out. נצ (It could even be said that it takes even more of a commitment and self-nullification to operate for the other side than it does to exist as holiness). וצAnd accordingly: According to the second explanation of 'Reshimu' that it is a residue from HaShem's infinite light of the EinSof. יצThat the ascent: Of the Neshomoh. יזצDescent below is: An ascent and elevation to the extent that it is greater than the state of Chayohi. חצDraw down and spread out: As the Alter Rebbe writes in Iggeres Hateshuva of the book of Tanya (Chapter 4) the letter Yud is just a small point alludes to HaShem's supernal wisdom which is abstract and concealed before it expands. When it expands and is revealed in human understanding and grasp it becomes incorporated and alluded to in the letter Hey which has a wide expanse to the width and to the length. And it is explained in Chassidus that the concealment of the letter 'Yud' is not a concealment which stems from the attribute of judgement whose intention would be hold back abundance but to contract as part of the system of giving like a teacher who condenses an intellectual concept in order for his student to grasp it. It is also explained that the letters 'Yud' and 'Hey' allude to contraction and expanse the letters 'Vov' and 'Hey'

Furthermore, it is even higher than the unadulterated name of 'Havaye' as it is in the raw state on its own without an explanation, and has no letters, and [consequently] one needs to arouse great mercy to get to this level. דaled This is the meaning of the Possuk:

כ נ שר י עיר קנו " גוי י ש אהו על א ב רתו

As an eagle awakens its nest ... carrying them on its pinions".

This Possuk highlights the greatness of the virtues of the B'nei Yisroel, not only the Tzaddikim but every single one of Yisroel as the Possuk states:

ו ע מך כ לם צ די קים צט

allude to extending and drawing down the abundance from above to below and spreading it out below. Also the letter 'Vov' whose head is like a 'Yud' and then has an extension of a long line alludes to the concept of first having a contraction and then having an expanse and extension. Also the final 'Hey' like the first 'Hey' alludes to expansion and spreading out. צ The Possuk states: (Yeshayohu 60:21)

ו ע מך כ לם צדי קים לעו לם יי רשו " א רץ נ צר מ ט עי מ ע שה י די ל ה ת פ אר

And your people, all of them righteous, shall inherit the land forever, a shoot of My planting, the work of My hands in which I will glory."

"And your people, all of them righteous" (Being that they are) "

נ צר מ ט עי מ ע שה י די גו

a shoot of My planting, the work of My hands"

" (As the Possuk continues) That every individual of Yisroel is the handiwork of Hakodosh Boruch Hu who maintains their eternal existence and therefore change is not possible. א Yet this matter ב might be concealed and it is about this that they make the Neshomoh swear ג that it will be a Tzaddik so that it shall be drawn down and brought into a revealed state. It is from this itself ד that we know for sure that it exists in concealment. Because if this was not the case and it did not exist in the concealed sense, As the Possuk continues: In other words, the reason why the whole of the nation are all considered Tzaddikim (without exception) is because ... א Change is not possible: Unlike humans that do sway and therefore there are changes and they don't exist forever. ב But this matter: This great virtue which truly does exist in every Jew. ג Neshomoh swear: Every single Neshomoh before it descends into this world is made to promise... ד It is from this itself: From the fact that they make the Neshomoh swear above that it will be a Tzaddik.

even in the greater concealment which is not at all actual, ה then there would be no Possibility of bringing it into the revealed reality! And since they make the Neshomoh swear ו that it will be a Tzaddik we are therefore compelled to say that this ז either exists already in a state of concealment or ח Not at all actual: There is a level of concealment which exists it just does not come out in a revealed sense (As in the element of fire which is inside a flint stone, which in a practical sense one can smack it against another rock and produce a fiery spark) then there is a concealment that it is so concealed that right now it does not even practically exist. This means in our situation if this virtue (of all the Jews being Tzaddikim) did not already exist in Yisroel at least in a concealed manner which does not practically exist (Which is the greater concealment). י Neshomoh swear: And this is demanded from every single Jewish soul. יא That this: Concept that spiritually every single Jewish soul has the makings of a Tzaddik.

at least it is in a state of 'Ibbur'. וְכֵן Therefore, by means of 'Avodah' and toil it may be brought into revelation. וְכֵן And because of this every single individual of Yisroel can attain [a position] above the name of 'Havaye' [and continue] until even reaching HaShem's very 'Atzmus' וְכֵן Atzmus having neither cause nor reason. וְכֵן Therefore, וְכֵן the way in which Hakodosh Boruch Hu acts with the B'nei Yisroel is like an eagle that carries its וְכֵן Ibbur: Lit. Foetus. This is also a concept which already exists somewhat but as a foetus is concealed within the mother's womb so too this idea exists but it is concealed (as is brought in Tanya regarding the level of a Tzaddik when a person inspires himself appropriately with an Issarusa Diletatoh - an inspiration from down below it is indeed possible that he will receive an inspiration and assistance from above and he can merit the spirit from the root of a Tzaddik that will pervade him (analogous to a foetus in his womb) it is explained regarding this concept that just as there are reincarnation souls so too sometimes a soul of a Tzaddik can impregnate another soul who himself is not a Tzaddik). וְכֵן Brought into revelation: This great virtue which exists in a concealed sense. וְכֵן HaShem's very Atzmus: HaShem's very essence. וְכֵן No reason: That because of that other reason He exists. וְכֵן Therefore: Because of the greatness of the B'nei Yisroel.

young on top of its wings saying better the arrow goes into me (than in my children). וְכֵן In other words, even though seemingly one could ask how can one say this וְכֵן about HaKodosh Boruch Hu, and this question is one the Heavenly Courts continuously ask and make complaints to HaKodosh Boruch Hu; וְכֵן notwithstanding this [situation] being difficult for HaShem so to speak, nevertheless וְכֵן HaShem still does act with the B'nei Yisroel in a manner that is beyond calculations [!] and so on... וְכֵן וְכֵן Then in my children: As Rashi explains this Possuk above. וְכֵן How can one say this: That the arrow will go into HaKodosh Boruch Hu. וְכֵן Complain to HaKodosh Boruch Hu: That Hakodosh Boruch Hu favours and treats the B'nei Yisroel different to the other creations. As He treats them with mercy and not only from judgement. וְכֵן Nevertheless: In spite of the difficulty to understand it. וְכֵן Beyond calculations: And HaShem does have mercy on the B'nei Yisroel and carries them as mentioned earlier.
